This weekend the WAAFL will be celebrating Red Arm Band Round. Red Arm Band Round aims to raise awareness of and remove racial vilification in football.

The red arm band is used to symbolise Earth-Blood-Life; we come from different places but we are all the same. Red Arm Band Round also coincide's with NAIDOC Week which celebrates the history, culture and achievements of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people.

If your club would like to participate in Red Arm Band Round please wear Red Tape around the upper arm. Those wearing a red arm band will have committed to zero tolerance of vilification, abuse, and an understanding that we are all alike.

Red Tape can be purchased from your local Bunnings store.
